

PRESCRIBED OPIOIDS?

Have a plan to quit.

3 MILLION AMERICANS struggle with opioid use disorder.

Prescription opioids can be helpful for pain management, especially post-surgery or injury. But if they begin to affect your life negatively instead of causing relief, it might indicate opioid use disorder (OUD). The CDC defines OUD as failing to reduce opioid use or using them in a harmful way. Always be responsible and use opioids as prescribed.
